

Rapido

To enable learners to achieve their full potential

A1 Assessors Award

Rapido Training

Meant for: Occupationally experienced individuals to prepare them to assess the competence of other employees in their work role.

Usual Duration: 1 day work shop plus one to one tutorials and professional discussions, usually undertaken over a period of 3 – 4 months.

Delivery: A programme of learning and assessment to compile a portfolio of evidence of the knowledge and practice of assessing.

Course content: The A1 assessor award will enable a successful candidate to become a work-based assessor. A study day introduces the award and provides the candidate with the underlying principles to enable them to start the assessment process.

Assessor candidates will then need to complete the following processes with two learners in the workplace:

- They must be part of or have access to an approved and established NVQ centre in their area of occupational competence
- Establish and review an assessment plan relevant to the individual learner
- Interpret national standards
- Collect and judge performance evidence normally by observation and questioning in the workplace
- Monitor learner's progress
- Make sound assessment decisions and provide feedback
- Record the assessment process

The evidence for your award will be generated from the assessment of at least 2 NVQ units by each learner.

Cost: £500
